BIG CROWD ENJOYS MERCHANTS' DAY AT OAK COVE PARK

Some idea of the popularity of the Daly City merchants and their association was given those who witnessed the exodus of people last Sunday morning, all being bent upon a day of pleasure together at Oak Cove Park, near San Mateo.

Led by Daly City's popular traffic officers and a splendid band of music, the caravan of automobiles, filled with merchants, business and professional men, city officials, citizens, friends and neighbors, and their families, paraded through the streets of Daly City and Colma, and thence to the picnic grounds at Oak Cove Park. There they found that a large crowd had already arrived and was waiting on the grounds. The place was packed with automobiles and people. Many who came late had difficulty in finding parking space.

There was neither delay nor accident of any kind to mar the pleasure of the day, and even the weather seemed to favor the occasion with unusually balmy air and brilliant sunshine.

At the grounds the dancing platform immediately became popular, and dancing continued all day.

The races occupied the afternoon until 3 o'clock, being hotly contested and affording much amusement to the spectators, at least.

At 3 o'clock a baseball game took place, in which the large crowd took especial enjoyment, the game being a real "scream," as many of those who took part had had little practice, and no doubt suffered next day from an unusual lameness. The game was hotly contested, but resulted in a draw, the score being 8 to 8. The contestants were Messrs. Rosenberger, Cuneo, Vasey, Callsen, Vireno, Rolff, Sweeney, Milo, J. Compagno, Lewis, Bodien and Twesten, for one team, while Hein, Hardemann, Cohn, H. H. Smith, Mather, Fahey, Pavlos, Haller, Stockton, N. Compagno, Cosby and Fiber were the players on the other team. The game abounded with good, bad and indifferent plays. But all of the participants, as well as the spectators, enjoyed the contest to the utmost.

The committee on refreshments worked diligently to supply all present with hot coffee, hot dogs, rolls and ice cream, all of which was supplemental to the well filled baskets of lunch brought by the individual picnickers.

There were people there from all parts of the county. Mayor Smith and most of the city officials were there, and joined with the merchants in making a day long to be remembered by the people of Daly City.

A list of those present would include practically all the business and professional men of the city, with their families.

President Andrew Vireno of the Daly City Merchants' Association, takes this occasion to public thank the committees who so ably assisted him, as well as the mayor and other city officials, and the public in general, for their co-operation, which materially contributed to make the picnic a grand success.

The following committees were in charge of the successful outing:

Automobiles and Transportation—John J. Fahey, Julius Twesten, A. L. Stockton, S. Giomi and W. J. Sweeney.

Games and Prizes—Dr. F. P. Callsen, Mayor H. H. Smith, H. M. Cohn, A. Sordelli, Carl E. Newman and Edmund Knoll.

Music and Dancing—A Vireno, W. H. Clay, H. M. Cohn, Elton McGraw, Dave Campbell and Tony Milano.

Refreshments—Peter Pavlos, Wm. Haerdter, J. Plansky and Louis Ross.

Publicity—W. H. Clay and W. M. McGregor.

This spirit of co-operation works for the benefit of all. The marchants, collectively and individually, deserve great credit, for they are working not alone for their own interest, but also for the welfare of the community. They deserve not only praise, they deserve the patronage of the people, and they should have it.

A dollar spent with the merchant of Daly City, who lives and has his family and home, and spends his money, in Daly City, helps not only the merchant who receives it, but it also helps the man who spends it. In other words, it stays in Daly City and is paid out again in Daly City, whereas a dollar spent outside, or with people who have no interest here, is gone forever.

The people of Daly City are like one big family. As a rule they stand together. They have a splendid city government, working harmoniously for the welfare of the community. They have an organization composed of merchants, business and professional men, all working for the same ends. They have a community of good citizens who are so jealous of the good name of Daly City that it is dangerous for anyone to make a disparaging remark about it. This is the type that makes for the upbuilding and the general well-being of the community.

The next regular meeting of the Daly City Merchants' Association will be held at the City Hall on Wednesday evening, June 4, at 8:30 o'clock. All merchants, business and professional men are requested to attend, as matters of great interest will come before the meeting.

FORTUNATE TO BE LIVING IN AMERICA

We of Daly City are fortunate to be living in America today. Yet we often fail to appreciate our present advantages, allowing some small detail to distort our perspective. Perhaps the coffee for breakfast was not up to standard, or it may be something came up that made us late for lunch, or perchance the car had a flat tire, and as a result the world looks all wrong. But it's not!

We are living in a glorious age. We enjoy privileges and conveniences undreamed of by even the wealthiest classes of the previous generation. The luxuries of yesterday are the necessities of today. Our standard of living is the highest in the history of mankind. And, according to students of science and economics, we have hardly made a beginning.

Stop and think of our present standard of living; consider for a moment that the average income today is more than twice what it was less than a decade ago. Think of what this increase in living standards means to you and your family. Then stop a moment and look at the darker side of the picture. There are families in Daly City who are not enjoying a living standard in keeping with the times. Their standard of living is below the average—somtimes far below. These people deserve something more from life. Their need is not for charity—they only ask a chance to earn. We who are more fortunate in Daly City owe our fellow townsmen an opportunity to properly raise their children and share in the better things of life.

Never can we consider Daly City a truly prosperous community until EVERY FAMILY enjoys an income sufficient to maintain the average standard of living. General employment at high wages is the answer. And we can best bring this about by the people of Daly City spending more dollars at home.

VETERAN FIREMEN'S PICNIC NEXT SUNDAY

The fourth annual outing and basket picnic given by the Veteran Firemen's Association of Daly City will be held next Sunday, June 1, at Ye Old Trout Farm, Stevens Creek, Santa Clara county. Everybody is invited. The committee has arranged to supply all with hot coffee and cold lemonade. Bring your own cups.

The caravan will assemble at Hillcrest Drive and Mission street at 8:30 A. M., and proceed down the highway to Mountain View school, on the highway, then turn to the right and on to Stevens Creek, where a pleasant day will be spent. Come early and get in the parade. Bring the family and friends.

LOCAL MAN VICTIM OF HIT-RUN DRIVER

Palpino Martinelli, of 274 Miriam street, Daly City, a quarryman, died early Monday at the Park emergency hospital, San Francisco, being the victim of a hit and run driver.

Late Sunday night Mr. Martinelli was found unconscious near Stowe Lake, in Golden Gate Park. He was taken to the emergency hospital, but it was not until several hours after his death that identification was made.

There were no witnesses to the accident, and as a result those responsible will undoubtedly escape punishment.

BOARD APPROVES WEED ORDINANCE

A regular meeting of the City Council was held last Monday evening at the City Hall, all members answering the roll call, Mayor H. H. Smith presiding.

As there were no protests on the recently adopted weed ordinance, and May 26 being the last day to enter a protest, the Council ordered that the work be done.

A communication was received from the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company asking permission to place a 2-inch steel pipe underground in Westlake avenue from the east line of Junipero Serra boulevard to the west line of Westlake avenue, approximately 15 feet south. Permission was granted and the work will be inspected by Superintendent Kennedy of the water department.

A communication was received from the fire department, recommending the purchase of an inhalator. As there are many different makes, this matter was referred to the board of fire commissioners for their consideration.

Health Officer Callsen was present at the meeting and made a splendid report on health conditions in the community.

Monthly bills were read and ordered paid.

DAVID JAMES HALE PASSES FOLLOWING AN OPERATION

After a short illness and then an operation for a mastoid, little 5-year-old David James Hale passed away in San Francisco last Sunday morning at 7 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hale, of Partridge Lane, are receiving the sincere sympathy of their many friends during their hour of deepest sorrow. David leaves besides a beloved father and mother a loving brother, Edward, and a host of little friends to mourn his passing. The funeral services were conducted on Wednesday from Suhr & Weiboldt, thence to Our Lady of Perpetual Help church, where a mass was celebated for the repose of his soul, commencing at 9:30 A. M. Interment was in Holy Cross cemetery.

LOCAL NINE WINS SECOND STRAIGHT

The Daly City Merchants' baseball team has hit its stride at last. The local nine turned in their second straight victory Sunday, defeating the Knight Cleaners, 5 to 2, on the Jefferson Union high school diamond.

Al Toole ascended the mound for Daly City. His cool-headed exhibition with men on base would be a credit to any more seasoned pitcher. On four occasions Toole held the visitors scoreless with a possible run on the sacks and not more than one out.

Knight pitched a steady game for the Cleaners, allowing seven hits and holding the Merchants scoreless for five innings. The local clan bunched three bingles in the seventh frame to score two runs, and in the following stanza tallied another pair on two safeties.

Rettig was the only Daly City batter to collect more than one hit. George led the team with two singles in four times at bat. Del Aherns garnered a triple in three trips to the plate. This young man is leading the team with a batting average of .423.

Harry Maloney supplied the fielding feature of the day. His one-hand catch after a 50 yard run robbed Barron of a home run. Maloney made five other putouts to bring his total up to 26, without an error.

Those who enjoyed the afternoon were: Mesdames Smith, Twesten, Landini, Putney, Romer, Jorgensen, White, Welch, Baumister, Kelly, Sill, Cochran; Georgia Smith, Mary Jorgensen, and Mrs. B. Cinnamond and Mrs. E. Barr, of Oakland.

NOVENA AT LOCAL CHURCH JUNE 13

Beginning June 13, the Redemptorist Fathers will conduct a Novena at Our Lady of Perpetual Help church, Daly City, in preparation for the feast which takes place June 22. We have not forgotten the wonderful demonstration of a year ago, a demonstration of love and devotion to God's Blessed Mother. Day after day that demonstration brought hundreds to our Mother's shrine. Day after day the hearts of her trusting children went away gladdened by Mary's answer to their prayers. This year's Novena will equal, nay, eclipse, that of last year. New faces will come to look on the sweet features of our Mother of Perpetual Help, and reading there the old yet ever new story of Mary's love and power, will take up the burdens of life with renewed courage and strength.

The opening services will be held at 6 A. M. Each morning there will be three services—6 A. M., 7:30 A. M., and 9 A. M. Afternoon services will take place at 3 P. M., and the evening services at 8 P. M., and will comprise the reading of petitions, Novena prayers, a short sermon, blessing of the sick, and the benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Features of the Novena will be the individual blessing of the sick after each service, congregational praying and singing. The Novena holds out unusual advantages to those taking part in the services. Their intentions will be prayed for morning and night by all making the Novena. This means that they will have a share not only in the prayers of hundreds congregating before the shrine, but also the prayers of holy nuns throughout the archdiocese who will make the Novena in their convent chapels. Crowning these advantages are the indulgences, partial plenary, to be gained by those receiving the Sacrament.

Every day attend one of the Novena services, and attend mass. Pray much, earnestly, fervently, and trustingly. The holiness of the saints may not be yours, but there is holiness within your reach. Begin the day of the Novena with the determined and prayerful intention to avoid sin. This honest effort will give you a strange power over the heart of God and the heart of His Blessed Mother.

REV. JAMES DONOHOE, Pastor.

REDWOOD GROVE IS FOUND IN DALY CITY

A redwood grove was discovered in Daly City after two weeks of anxiety spent by the members of the Booster committee. There had been much discussion about these redwoods.

The Booster committee of Colma-Vista Grande Aerie No. 1848, met at the home of Prof. A. J. Bodien, on Rice street, on Wednesday of last week. The profesosr is somewhat of an authority on forestry and an ardent follower of the rod and reel, and all out of door sports.

After a delay of half an hour, to permit Brther B. G. Kost to return to his home on Winchester street to don apparel befitting the occasion, the members were led to the much discussed forest, through imaginary swamps, supposedly infested with mosquitos and other vermin which make their homes in such localities. The committee were given a surprise when led through the basement and found in it a tent, all set up, ready for use, by a camper in these redwoods. It was a most artistic setting and full of the call of out-door sport.

The business of the evening was the theatre party to be given in the Daly City Theatre on July 31.

At the conclusion of the meeting some of the members took poles and lines and others went shooting. After an evening well spent in vacation pursuits, a delicious supper was served by the hostess, Mrs. Bodien, and her daughter Elinor, and was enjoyed by the following: B. G. Kost, George Connally, Ed. Heim, Fred Colilns, E. Nessier, A. J. Dalton, LeMar Johnson, William Sunderland, Herbert Harper, William Bolger, A. J. Bodien.

BOYS' QUARTET AT GRACE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The Presbyterian church, corner of Hanover and Evergreen, was favored by selections from the boys' choir last Sunday evening at the 7:45 service. Under the direction of Mrs. Charles Roof and Miss Mildred Swan, the boys have shown unusual talent, and this feature is now a regular event in the church services. A sacred solo, "The Holy City," illustrated by steropticon slides, was also a part of the program.

Sunday morning at 10, Children's Day will be observed. The children will then present two plays, "The Innkeeper at Bethlehem," and "The Telephone." The parents and friends are especially invited to this service.

REDISTRICTING ADVOCATES ARE VICTORS IN COURT

The long fight for the redistricting of San Mateo county has apparently been won by those who seek a redistricting of supervisorial districts.

Recognizing initiative powers of the people as "so important that this court cannot afford to ignore them," Superior Judge J. R. Welch of San Jose last Monday upheld the right of San Mateo county citizens, through an initiative petition, to force the board of supervisors to redistrict San Mateo county, either by adopting the proposed ordinance on file with the board, or by calling a special election.

In a decision handed down in the court room at Redwood City, Judge Welch denied the suits of Horace Nelson, of Pescadero, and Dante Dianda, of Montara, to enjoin the county from calling a special election on the issue, and upheld the intervenor in both suits, Goerge W. Williams, of Burlingame.

Judge Welch took a step further than rendering a decision in the injunction suits alone. He ordered the board of supervisors to act on redistricting at once, either by adoption of the ordinance before it, or submitting the issue to the voters of the county.

In concluding his lengthy opinion, Judge Welch said:

"In the opinion of the court, it is the duty of the board of supervisors of San Mateo county either to pass such proposed initiative ordinance as presented, or else to call a special election of the county, at such time as provided by law, and to submit such ordinance to the will of the electors of the county for approval or rejection. It is so ordered."

Judge Welch's petition decided Nelson's injunction suit only, but it was agreed at the trial on March 18 that the decision would also apply to the Dianda suit.

Judge Welch granted both sides the time provided by law in which to file findings and then he will enter judgment.

The only move left for Nelson and Dianda is a direct appeal to the state supreme court. An appeal is being considered by Attorney McCurdy.

Throughout his opinion, the San Jose jurist refers to cases in which both federal and state courts have respected the initiative rights of the people on an even plane with the powers of legislative bodies.

Judge Welch said it was his opinion that the rights of San Mateo county citizens to force redistricting by initiative steps were not in excess of the board's legislative powers, and therefore the latter was constitutional.

The county of San Mateo was defendant in the two injunction suits. District Attorney Franklin Swart, representing the county, said that the county would abide by the court's ruling and that no appeal would be made by him.

MISS DILIA BENETTI IS GUEST OF HONOR AT BRIDAL SHOWER

Miss Dilia Benetti, of Santa Cruz avenue, was the guest of honor at a shower given in the home of Miss Adele Raffo, on Gambetta street, on Wednesday of last week. A large cedar chest, containing the gifts, was presented to the bride to be.

The guests who enjoyed the refreshments and a very pleasant evening were: Lillian Brown, Carolyn Kell, Claire Kell, Annie Benetti, Celeste Altieri, Mary Zipser, Catherine Oligher, Adele Raffo, Genevieve Raffo, Lena Dagna, Rena Dagna, Lena Ferrari, Vistoria Pantaleoni, and Dilia Benetti.

SUNDAY SERVICES AT THE CALVARY BAPTIST CHAPEL

The following are the sermon topics for next Sunday at Calvary Baptist Chapel, 5724 Mission street:

In the morning the pastor, Rev. Charles Woessner, will speak on "The Anchor of the Soul." "One of our scientists has given us a description of a marine plant which rises from a depth of 150 to 200 feet, and floats on the great breakers of the western ocean. The stem of this plant is less than an inch through; yet it grows and thrives and holds it own against the fierce smitings and pressures of breakers which no masses of rock, however hard, could long withstand. One naturally wonders just where lies the secret of this marvelous resistance and endurance. How can this slender plant face the fury of the elements so successfully, and, in spite of storm and tempest, keep its hold and perpetuate itself from century to century? The answer simply is this, that it reaches down in the still depths, where it fixes its grasp after the fashion of the instinct that has been put into it, to the naked rocks; and no commotion of the waters can shake it from its fastenings. In like manner is the soul that has anchored itself in Christ; for he that has anchored himself to Christ may be calm in sorrow and triumph over temptation because he can say: 'I know in whom I have believed.' As a great building needs a deep foundation and a leaping fountain needs a full spring, likewise does the soul need a deep anchorage in the Rock of Ages. How firm are the words:

"Rock of Ages, cleft to me,
Let me hide myself in Thee."

Mr. Adrian Waldo Sasha, noted Jewish writer and teacher of "The Laws of Life," will be the guest speaker of the evening. Mr. Sasha is a converted Hebrew native of Russia, who has a unique message of the highest importance to the present life. His topic for the evening will be, "The Two Ways of Life." His messages are scholarly and inspiring. To hear him once is to want to hear him again.

A MYSTERIOUS ACCIDENT

Mrs. P. Arndt, of Los Banos avenue, was brought to her home by some person or persons unknown between the hours of 11 and 12 o'clock last Monday morning, and put on a couch in her home, unconscious. She came to about 11:45 A. M.. and telephoned her son, who works in San Francisco. He hurried home and found she had again relapsed into a state of coma. It was found that she was in considerable pain, had a broken nose an injury to her back and a badly fractured knee. The son called Chief of Police Doyle and he learned that Mrs. Arndt had gone in search of work at 44 Spear street, and had walked up Mission to Third and down Third to Folsom. She stepped from the sidewalk, saw a car coming and stepped back on the sidewalk, after which she remembered nothing that had occurred. The case was turned over to the hit and run department of the San Francisco police, but so far no witnesses to the accident have been located.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Edwards' Drug Store, Mission street, near San Jose avenue.

PROGRESS IN EXTENSION OF NATURAL GAS SERVICE

Rapid progress is being made in the extension of natural gas transmission lines to serve Central and Northern California. That section of the San Joaquin Valley natural gas line being constructed under joint ownership of the Standard Oil Company and the Pacific Gas and Electric Company and known as the "Stanpac" natural gas line has been placed in operation from the Kettleman Hills to Pittsburg. It consists of 126 miles of 26 inch pipe, 15 miles of 22 inch and 25 miles of 24 inch pipe. This line is being extended to tie in with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company's line at Richmond. This will complete a second line into the metropolitan bay area and will tie in with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company's coast line which was put into operation last fall.

The Stockton-Sacramento branch, which is a 16 inch pipe line, is completed as far as Thornton.

The Tracy Junction-Milpitas 22 inch line, 37 miles in length, has been completed. This line makes available natural gas for Livermore and Pleasanton, communities which have heretofore been without this fuel. The completion and operation of this line makes available at Milpitas two sources of supply from the Kettleman Hills and Buttonwillow fields, one line coming north via Hollister and San Jose and the other via the San Joaquin Valley.

From Milpitas, branch lines extend up the bay, one serving the San Francisco and Peninsula territory and the other serving Oakland and eastbay cities.

Crews are now actively engaged in the laying of a 17 mile line which taps the Sacramento-Stockton line near Manteca. This line will be extended to Modesto and is scheduled to be completed about July 1. The line will be tapped, making natural gas available for Ripon, Salida, Oakdale and Riverbank.

Little Gloria Bacigalupi, of 51 Wilson street, celebrated her second birthday on Wednesday evening, May 28. The tiny tot was tendered many lovely gifts by her little friends. A dainty table was set for the occasion and after refreshments were served games and dancing took place. Among the guests present were Baby Jean Bacigalupi, Mary Phelan, David Johnston, Jr., Stanley Parmisano, Corinne Parmisano, Edna Phelan, Harvey Phelan, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Parmisano, Mrs. K. Phelan, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Pettigrew, Mr. and Mrs. David Johnstone, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Johnstone, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Bacigalupi.

In every big firm there are the Quick and the Dead. There are the all-alive, keen, progressive men and there are the standstills, who say "No" to every good suggestion. This struggle between the go-aheads and the pull-backs makes a bad mess of many a balance sheet. My advice is: Bury the Dead and get into step with the Quick.—Herbert N. Casson in Forbes Magazine.

Prisoners are to build a Brawley jail in which to keep more prisoners. That is the plan of the Brawley city council. The city building office has issued a permit for a new jail to take the place of one destroyed by fire last year. The new structure is to cost about $15,000 and the cost will be reduced by having city prisoners work out their fines.

It took the legal minds of Superior Judges J. A. Smith and Joseph Huberty of Calaveras County to ascertain where the first Calaveras County courthouse was erected. A mark is to be placed at the historic spot, but records read that the first courthouse was built at Pleasant Valley and Double Springs. The judges looked over the deeds and ascertained that it was the same place with two names, so that settles that much disputed question.

According to word received at Modesto the California appellate court has affirmed a jury's verdict awarding Miss Florence Brown, Modesto school teacher, $5000 and interest against Thomas H. Kewin, Modesto business man, and Charles D. Swan, banker. The money was advanced by Miss Brown several years ago toward the attempted purchase of the Dry Creek School site. The decision was handed down by Judge T. B. Warne of Tuolumne County.

The high school board at Porterville may be credited with the new saying: "A bath a day keeps low marks away." Board members have issued na edict ordering all Porterville High School students to take a bath at the school daily. The ruling will become effective with the opening of school next fall. It is estimated that between 800 and 1000 towels will be added to the daily high school laundry bill as a result of the "order of the bath."

Juvenile crime was on the wane in California today. This trend, in sharp contrast to the postwar wave of youthful law violations, was seen as reports were assembled from all sections of the state in the newly created "clearing house of crime" operated in conjunction with the state bureau of criminal identification. Supervised by Clarence Morrill, chief of the bureau, this "clearing house" gathers reports on felony violations from all counties, and each month brings in a new grist of reports reflecting the crime tendencies of youth and adult.

The complaint sets forth that all of the defendants claim some interest in the beach front but that under a resolution passed by the city council last April the city will "take all steps necessary to recover and hold these lands for public use."

Her admission of her love for him was made in a quiet and introspective way, as if his physical self had ceased to be a living part of it. It was this, and her reference to Claire, which strengthened his determination not to weaken her faith in him again.

He moved to the edge of piled-up debris and began to investigate it, cautioning her to stand back a little. The rubble loosened under his feet and slid down. There was quite a little rock slip before he had gone far, sending up a cloud of dust between them. Through this, when it had settled, Carla followed him. She heard him calling to her to go back, but in a moment was standing at his side. Almost above them, so steep was the ascent, the fissure narrowed to half a dozen feet in width and was choked with loose rock and sand. Paul looked at it with somberly appraising eyes and instinctively put himself between it and Carla. Another explosion of dynamite sent a scarcely perceptible tremor through the earth. Slight as it was, a tiny stream of sand and pebbles came trickling down from the suspended avalanche. He caught her hand and took her swiftly back to safety.

"A nearer shot would send that thing down on us," he said. "Wait here until I find out more about it."

"What are you going to do?" she asked.

"First, climb the edge of the wall and see what is beyond."

He did this and returned to her in a few minutes.

"Funny how little things put themselves in our way!" He tried to speak lightly. "The fissure is clear as a floor beyond that slug of debris, which is ready to topple. We could be out in five minutes if it were not for that. As it is, I've got to take a chance."

"And—the chance?"

"We must get over the loose stuff. Either that or go back—to the little fire."

"We must go on," she said.

"Yes, we've got to go on. We passed a stick back there five or six feet long. By hugging close to the wall I think I can reach one of the keystones in the slide and loosen it. It won't be difficult, and the whole thing will come down like a house with the foundation pulled out from under it. I'm going to take you back a distance."

"And when the slide comes, where will you be?"

"Against the rock wall, as small as I can make myself."

"You mean," said Carla, with quick understanding in her eyes, "that you are going to take the stick and pry one of the rocks loose, but not from the edge of the wall, for no foothold is there. Your intention is to stand in front, and make an effort to get out of the way when the avalanche starts."

"I am sure I can do it."

"If it comes slowly, yes. But what if it should come the other way? Let us go together, Paul. It may be that we can get over it safely."

"Wait here until I get the stick."

"If we try to climb over it together we will not need the stick."

"But we cannot climb it. I know. I have seen a hundred of those things in the pit. They are like hair-trigger guns, even when they look solid. It is necessary to loosen a rock and then make a run for it. The stick will give me a few feet start."

"But it may be more firmly fixed than you think."

"My stick will prove it. Until then you must remain here."

She accompanied him to the downward exit of the small, room-like prison they had entered, and listened to his footsteps until the sound of them grew faint. Then she ascended to the crest of the rock slip again. A score of feet beyond lay the danger point. Between it and where she stood was the rough depression, out of which Paul would be compelled to race for his life should he loosen the avalanche. There was an overhang of rock, high up, and she did not see how he could escape it. She turned to look back in the direction he had gone. It was like Paul to take the situation in this way, as if it were an unimportant incident rather than a tragic thing.

Light was fading swiftly, and evening shadows were falling between the deep, close walls of the crevasse. A radiance was in Carla's face, as if a voiceless spirit within her were sending a message to some one in the world above. She could hear Paul's footsteps returning, the iron nails in his boots striking on rock, and her lips moved, yearning to call his name. Then she ran down into the hollow and up its farther edge. After all, it might not be such a sword of Damocles over them. If it were not, then Paul could only scold. If it were—

She began to climb.

CHAPTER XII

Paul heard the crash. He was a little beyond the place where he had left Carla, and ran to it, calling her name. He leaped through the dust which was settling quickly and heavily, and saw the hollow choked to the brim with the debris of the avalanche. Carla was caught in the last grip of it, near the crest of the rock slip. The upper part of her body was out, and she was alive when Paul reached her. He tried to speak as he tore at the rocks. But his voice was gone. He saw Carla's eyes looking at him with the light fading out of them. She made no sound. Her eyes were closed when he had her in his arms at last. Yet she was not dead—he found himself saying the words over and over as he climbed with her out of the fissure.

It may be that the full story of Carla Haldan and Paul would never have been known had it not been for the happening of this night. It seems reasonable that neither Claire nor Lucy-Belle nor the others would have told the more intimate of its details. A madman told the story. The madman was Paul. He came into the engineers' camp in the middle of the night. They did not know him at first, for brush and limbs and rocks had disfigured him in the darkness. His face was like that of a man who had been beaten with naked fists. His clothes were half gone. His feet were bleeding through the shredded leather of his boots. In his arms he carried a woman; a dead woman, they thought. Not until Derwent unwrapped the coat with which her head and shoulders were protected and saw her face could he clearly realize that the man was Paul.

Her Eyes Were Closed When He Had Her in His Arms at Last.

They took Carla to the Mistassini. She was carried gently, but quickly, in a litter—with half a dozen men taking turns in bearing her.

Even then, in his exhaustion, Paul insisted on walking at her side until the last nerve in him broke. It was this which robbed him of a day and a night of conscious life.

When he came to himself again, after hours of tortuous sleep, Derwent told him that Carla was badly hurt but would live.

Claire, he said, had returned to her people in New York the second day after his supposed death. Lucy-Belle had gone with her. Word had been sent to her that he and Carla were alive, and Lucy-Belle had replied, saying that Claire was very ill. Then had come a telegram from Claire.

Derwent gave it to Paul.

"I am so happy," it said. "Come to me as quickly as you can. Only God knows how glad I am."

"It sometimes takes a thing like this to bring out the love in a woman's heart," said Derwent, remembering Paul's years of loneliness.

"Yes, it does," said Paul, and he saw Carla's face between him and the words which Claire had written.

His Little Lapse

Little Reggie was dining out for the first time in his life. His mother had given him a few hints beforehand on good manners, and so far Reggie had fulfilled all her expectations of him.

"Will you have a little more pudding, Reggie?" asked his hostess towards the end of the meal.

"No, thank you," replied Reggie, to his mother's gratification.

"Oh, come on, now," urged his hostess; "do have a little."

"No, thank you," said Reggie again.

The good lady smiled.

"Well, dear," she asked, "what will you have?"

Then Reggie's politeness broke down.

"A lot, please!" he shrilled.

Invented Acoustic Tiles

The late Emile Berliner was the inventor of the "acoustic cement cell." Mr. Berliner had studied hall acoustics for years. He observed that an auditorium that has wooden walls has superior acoustics, while the cause of bad acoustics frequently is the rigidity of walls. It was this theory that the inventor developed in the acoustic tiles. These are composed of porous cement and yet have the resonance of wood. They are the fruit of more than 20 years of research.

SPORTS POSSIBLE FOR NIGHT PLAY

Games Are Not Likely to Be Popular in Big Cities.

Baseball, racing and college football can be held at night satisfactorily from a technical standpoint. But it is unlikely that any of them will be popular in big league cities except in such cases where the night is clinatically preferable to daylight.

Night college football really attracted attention to the possibilities of night baseball promotion. That was a move begun by Southern universities. They found that football practice and intercollegiate contests were objectionable because of the high temperatures prevailing down South during the football season, and tried night because of its greater coolness.

In localities where temperatures are lower, colleges still attract capacity crowds to daylight games—so why turn to the night?

It remained for one institution to discover that its night football program was more lucrative than its day program—Drake university at Des Moines. And it was this financial success that induced Lee Keyser of the Des Moines baseball club to embark on his interesting venture into night baseball.

Primo Carnera, Italy's donation to the list of heavyweight contenders, is barred from appearing in boxing matches in Wisconsin. The state boxing commission announced it would adhere to the suspension of Carnera by the national commission.

Bicycle races may soon take their place alongside other sports in Texas. Plans are under way for tracks at Dallas, San Antonio and Houston.

According to an announcement of the Madison Square Garden corporation, Jack Sharkey has agreed, in case he defeats Schemling on June 12, to defend his heavyweight championship of the world against the leading opponent available, the bout to be staged in the Yankee stadium the last week in September. The garden is planning to have Schemling sign a similar agreement.

Every Friday women and girls are admitted free of charge to the Chicago Cubs' park. Ladies' day has become so popular that the management has been forced to revise the system of handling the crowd. Hereafter, each woman must have an admission ticket to get into the park and only 20,000 will be distributed for each Ladies' day. When the ticket booth was opened at nine o'clock there were 5,000 women outside the park. The limit of 20,000 was reached before noon. Each fair Cub fan is limited to two admission slips.

Joie Ray was probably the best mile runner this country has produced.

He holds the indoor record jointly with Paavo Nurmi. He was king over the distance before Nurmi invaded these shores. He had traveled the mile in 4:14 3-5 and no other man had ever traveled as fast indoors. Then came the great Finn, ran the distance in 4:12 and shattered Ray's mark. Ray, seeing what Nurmi accomplished, came back and equaled the new record and became its joint holder.

Ernest Smith, Chicago White Sox shortstop, who had a reputation for going after everything and consequently making many errors, is major leaguing this year under a manager who is capable of full appreciation of the short stop who ranges wide, makes bobbles, but comes up with startling plays.

Donie Bush, leader of the White Footers of Comiskey, was that kind of a shortstop himself.

"I never led the American league in anything but errors," said Donie Bush recently.

So it would seem that this former Blue youngster is under a leader who will be patient with him and who will teach him much of the finer points of shortstopping.

France, England, Canada and Cuba will be represented in the international championship star class yacht races, to be held at Gibson island, on the Chesapeake, starting September 26. New star fleets are forming in Portugal, Spain, and Germany, but it is not probable they will attend the Maryland regatta.

Stanley Purnell of Baltimore, second baseman on the Princeton freshman baseball team, occupies a niche in baseball's hall of fame with a record of having hit two home runs in a single inning, with the bases filled each time—a stunt which never has been performed in organized baseball.

Purnell's eight runs driven in in a single inning is two runs above the major league record of six runs driven in, held by Fred Merkle, one-time New York Giants star.

Ralston Hemsley, the Pirates' young catcher, already classed as one of the best backstops in the National league, insists that he is not getting enough money for a catcher who has been in the big company for three years. It is said that the Pirates got him to sign a $3,000 contract this year, which is his third, a $2,000 bonus if he did certain things. Hemsley wanted a $5,000 salary, but found himself bucking a stone wall.

THE FINE ASOKA

The first person to start a hospital for the cure of sick animals was an emperor who lived in India many years ago.

His name was Asoka and to all the boys and girls who love animals it is nice to hear what he did.

He lived so long ago that the way we know of much that was done in his time is by reading what the men who wrote histories have to tell us.

Most of the good deeds which he did were written upon the rocks, long, long, years ago.

And upon these rocks were also written rules and directions for his people.

Among many things which he did, in addition to building hospitals for animals, was to build hospitals for human beings and to see that they were properly looked after. He also had wells dug so people could drink when they were traveling through the country and could have good fresh water.

He ordered the planting of trees so people could rest under their shade, and he spent all his time thinking how he could help others.

He was not the first person who tried to help others. But he was the first one to think of a hospital for animals, and throughout the time he was emperor he saw that the hospitals for animals were kept in good condition.

Animals with thorns in their feet were taken to the hospital. The horrid thorns would be taken out and soft, cooling liniment or ointment poured on and the animal would feel all right once more.

Animals with sore throats, animals with colds, animals with broken bones and sprained ankles, all animals who needed attention and care were looked after in the hospitals founded by Asoka.

If animals had had written histories as well as human beings there would be a great deal written in them about Asoka and the wonderful work that he did.

But even though they could not write for future people and future animals of Asoka's goodness, they were very, very grateful, dumbly, but wonderfully grateful.

And in the histories of those day men did speak of the great goodness of Asoka.

So we must think of his good work and see how much we can do, too, for animals.

We shouldn't hold horses' heads back with cruel checkreins. We should think how it makes them feel and we shouldn't want to be stylish if it is going to cause hurt to animals.

Little dogs shouldn't have their tails cut for a cruel fashion. Fox terriers should be allowed to live with their tails the way they were born.

And when people say it doesn't hurt them, ask how they would like to have a finger or a hand cut off for fashion?

Yes, Asoka was the first friend of animals, but let's do all we can to be their friends, too!

A Standoff

"Johnny," said the teacher, "if your father owed a man one hundred dollars and promised to pay him five dollars a week, how many weeks would it take to pay the man?"

Johnny—One hundred weeks.

"You don't know your lesson," said the teacher.

"You don't know my dad, either," said Johnny.

SAVING THE BABIES

In the long list of accomplishments to the credit of modern medical science perhaps none has a greater significance than the success attained in the reduction of childhood deaths.

Queen Anne of England, born in 1664, bore seventeen children, only one of whom lived more than a year, and he died at the age of 11. Now large families of children often mature without a death.

Through medical education and the treatment of early defects the child's chance of reaching maturity has been greatly increased, especially during the last half century. The lengthened average span of human life which now prevails is largely due to reduction of mortality among infants.

In addition to regularly employed physicians and nurses by public health units, thousands of volunteer workers are co-operating in the noble task of saving the lives of babies. For their effective effort in this and other directions looking to the preservation of human life the medical profession and those co-operating are entitled to the highest praise.

"FLYING" HURT BUSINESS

Boston had its Babbitts in the early days, as may be inferred from an order prohibting a "flying" exhibition in 1757, because it attracted so much attention as to take people from their business.

The Boston Gazette of September 12, 1757, carried a notice saying that "John Childs has flown off most of the highest steeples in Old England, and does intend this day, and two days following, to fly off Dr. Cutler's church, where he hopes to give satisfaction to all spectators."

Later the same paper stated that the "flight" was satisfactory, it consisting of sliding down a rope sloping from the steeple to a point on the ground about 700 feet away. But, the paper added:

"As these performances led many people from their business, John Childs is forbid flying any more in the town."

Dr. Butler declared that there is no great man living in the world today, but he didn't say it in Rome.

A COMMON DUTY

During the month of June thousands of boys and girls will graduate from the high schools throughout the country. They emerge, filled with confidence, to continue their studies in institutions of higher learning or to take their places in the business world. In either course they are to be more or less upon their own. Until now, they have been to a great extent under the watchful care and guidance of their parents, but from henceforth, either in college or the business world, they must depend more upon themselves.

Upon the foundation laid, the character formed, the ideals fixed in their mentailty rests the certainty of success. The questions in the minds of many parents are: Will they, upon their own initiative, go forward? Are they equipped to meet and cope with the problems and difficulties which will confront them? If not, upon whom is the blame.

Primarily, the responsibility for their future rests upon the public schools. It is in these institutions that the boys and girls have spent the greater portion of their time. It is there that they have recived their initial equipment. And, since the schools are what the public makes them, the duty of seeing that the youth of this country has the best possible training is shared by every citizen. This duty is a grave one and should not be shirked.

Let every citizen take an interest in the public schools and, witnessing the ceremonies of a graduation exercise, be able to assure himself that he has done his part, to the best of his ability, to give these young citizens a good, basic foundation upon which to build their future. H.

A MONSTER SKELETON

After being buried for ages in the fossil beds of northeastern Utah, the largest skeleton ever discovered on land now stands in the Carnegie Museum at Pittsburgh, a striking example of the monsters which roamed the earth during the Age of Reptiles, many millions of years ago. This skeleton is that of a Brontosaurus, of the dinosaur order of reptiles, 100 feet long and 20 feet high. In life the animal weighed perhaps 20 tons. Alongside of it an elephant would seem as small relatively as a dog beside a horse.

The fossil bed from which it was taken is the most extensive deposit of dinosaurian and other reptilian remains ever discovered. It was found in 1919, and the site is under the protection of the National Park Service. More than 200 tons of bones and other material of scientific value have been removed for study and exhibition, with very little duplication of specimens.

According to a statement by the Park Service, it is the belief of scientists that these prehistoric animals were originally imbedded in a sand bar in some ancient river. This sand turned to sandstone and was covered by thousands of feet of other strata of rocks, the whole later having been forced into an upright position by great volcanic upheaval, which left the fossil bed exposed on a mountain top. Through the patient labors of scinetists who are continually exploring among such records preserved in the rocks, as well as among the ruins of ancient civilization, salient facts in the world's history which were totally unknown a few years ago are being brought to light.

SIX YEARS FOR $500

Recently the Mississippi house of representatives voted an appropriation of $500 to Moses Walker, a negro, who had been pardoned after serving six years in the penitentiary. He had been convicted on charges of shooting into a white man's home and sentenced to life imprisonment. On his death bed, the white man confessed that he had "framed" the negro because of a grudge, had shot the hole in his own house to substantiate the false charge, and that the negro was entirely innocent of the crime.

It is difficult to understand how anyone could deliberately swear away the liberty of an innocent person merely through spite, but in many cases not only liberty but life itself has been so sworn away. That in this case the real criminal's conscience troubled him is evident. At least it began to trouble him when death stared him in the face.

The $500 voted by the state is better than nothing, but it is poor recompense for six years of unjust imprisonment. Persons wrongfully imprisoned, when such wrongful imprisonment can be conclusively proved, should be entitled to substanial damages by law, and the severest penalties should be imposed on those who are responsible for willfully bringing about the conviction of innocent citizens, white or black.

A CALAMITY CRY

In a recent sermon, a New Jersey pastor made a statement that sounds quite familiar, as follows:

"There is lawlessness everywhere. Children no longer obey their parents. It is evident that the end of the age is at hand."

Then the pastor told his congregation that the words were not original with him, not even an utterance of the present day. They were translated from an inscription on a brick found in the ruins of ancient Assyria, dating centuries before the time of the patriarch Abraham.

Records which have been preserved during all periods of recorded history give evidence of similar conditions existing in the world. Sometimes an improvement is noted; again lawlessness and violence become more prevalent than ever.

While present day conditions are bad enough, it seems on the whole they are better than in the past. There is more thought given to the relief of suffering, to the betterment of industrial conditions, to mutual helpfulness, and like matters of benefit to humanity than in former times. Although the World war gave civilization a severe setback in some respects, we must remember that war has marked the history of every generation of mankind. The same is true of lawlessness, oppression and every other manifestation of immorality. These will always exist in greater or less degree, so long as good and evil struggle for mastery in the hearts and minds of men.

"STUDENT PRINCE" COMING TO THE CURRAN THEATRE

Lillian Albertson and Louis O. Macloon the producers who have brought to the Pacific Coast "The Desert Song," "Hit the Deck," "No, No, Nanette," "Lady Be Good," "The New Moon," and many other attractions, announce as their new offering the ever colorful "The Student Prince," said by many to be the greatest of all Romberg's operettas. Romberg has written numerous operettas, perhaps the most noted being "Maytime," "Blossom Time," "The Desert Song," "The New Moon," and "The Student Prince."

The return engagement of "The Student Prince," which opens at the Curran Theatre, San Francisco, on June 2, is in the nature of a popular demand, for few musical productions seen in San Francisco in the past twenty years or so have the combined charm of music and talent as is to be found in this superb attraction. Here truly is a musical play that has found appeal among those with the most diversified taste for entertainment.

It's spectacular qualities set it apart, and the large male chorus draw many music lovers.

The cast, one of the largest seen on a local stage, is a notable one. Aside from Allan Prior, there is Elvira Tanzi singing Kathie, Richard Powell, Blanche La Claire, Sylvia De Frankie, Tom Ahearn, Hadley Hall, Gordon De Main, Russell Scott, Mary Francis Taylor, and many others.

"The New Moon" closes ite engagement at the Curran on Saturday, May 31.

· Our · Standard · of · Living ·

Thousands of years ago men and women dwelt in caves. The women and children huddled together while the men went out with spear and hatchet to secure that primal want of all mankind—FOOD.

This food was the raw flesh of wild animals: clothing, wild animal's skins. Comfort, as we know it, was then unknown. Safety for self and family was dependent upon the skill to kill.

The only law was the law of might. The strong survived—the weak and sick perished.

Gradually, through the ages, man's standard of living improved, until today the standard of living the world over is higher than any time since the dawn of history and people of the United States have more of the comforts and luxuries of living than the people of any other country.

We, of the United States, are blessed with greater prosperity, greater pleasure, luxury and more conveniences than any other group of people in the history of mankind.

America abounds with opportunity for study, safe and healthful work—the kind of work that leaves the worker with enough leisure for recuperation and recreation—time to partake of the joy of living.

Working conditions are better than in any other country. Not only are working conditions better and hours of labor shorter, but most important of all, our workers enjoy an opportunity to earn sufficient income to meet the cost of the highest standards of living in all human history.

During the last score of years the income of the average family has more than doubled. This has resulted in allowing most of us to enjoy comforts and pleasures that our fathers could but dream of.

But there are still those among us who have failed to prosper in like proportion. There are families whose annual income is below that necessary to properly raise their children—our future citizens. It is our duty to our community to furnish these wage earners with the opportunity of earning a sufficient income to maintain the average standard of living. General employment at high wages is the heart of our prosperity.

One method of creating this opportunity of service to others is to foster home industry—promote our community's welfare—enjoy the highest standard of living possible to each one of us individually.

This page is presented by the undersigned in the interest of this community's welfare. We gratefully acknowledge our debt to our customers and clients who are enabling us to earn a livelihood in this community and dedicate ourselves and our interests to the raising of the standard of living in

FIGHTING THE AUTO ACCIDENT MENACE

Several states have embarked on intensive campaigns to lower the gigantic annual toll of deaths and injuries caused by automobiles.

During 1930, Maryland has suspended the licenses of 994 drivers, revoked 761, and refused license applications from 1,262, for such offenses as drunken driving, failure to stop after accidents, and driving at extremely high speeds.

The New York safety responsibility law not only suspends or revokes the licenses of reckless or incompetent drivers, but provides that before they can be relicensed they must provide proof of their ability to satisfy damages that may accrue from future accidents, either by cash deposits, bond or insurance policy.

Connecticut has adopted a plan by which drivers who have accidents must pay higher rates of insurance than careful drivers.

The trend throughout the entire nation is toward modernized, strictly enforced traffic codes, laws making examination of potential drivers necessary, and severe punishments when motorists are inexcusably careless or incompetent. Something is tragically wrong when 30,000 persons can be killed and 750,000 seriously injured in a single year by automobiles.

FISH AND GAME NOTES

By J. H. NEUSTADT

How far will a fish travel? This is a question of endless debate, not only among fishermen, but among fish culturists the world over. What might be a record in distance traveled by a fish in a short time was reported recently by Raymond E. McDonald, a fisherman of Kenosha.

On June 25, Mr. McDonald caught a rainbow trout, 14 miles southeast of Kenosa, in Lake Michigan, which had a Michigan fish tag pinched onto the lower side of the face. Investigation showed that this fish was tagged on April 24 at Foxes Bridge on the Little Maistee River, 20 miles inland in the state of Michigan. This fish had traveled at least 140 miles in 60 days.

Nature has provided birds with a truly remarkable sense of detecting when food supply becomes abundant in a certain area. When insects multiply in such numbers as to seriously threaten growing crops, nature, if left to her own resources, will frequently provide the remedy in the form of an army of birds flocking from all quarters.

Sea gulls, much maligned as destroyers of duck egges, are, nevertheless, ever present friends of the farmer. They may be seen in many newly plowed fields following the plowman and destroying the upturned bugs and worms. They thus have a value as insect destroyers and save the farmer many dollars.

They also suppress plagues. A classical instance occurred during the Mormon occupation of Utah. Grasshoppers one season were devastating the grain crops and the Mormons were facing starvation. The Mormon church prayed in a body for deliverance from the pests. As the story goes, uncounted numbers of sea gulls appeared and checked the plague. In Temple square, Salt Lake sea gull commorates this deliverance

DALY CITY THEATRE HAS STRONG ARRAY OF SUPER-FEATURES

On this bill Richard Arlen will appear with Mary Brian in Paramount's thrilling auto race story, "Burning Up," said to abound with thrilling chills and chilling spills. On the screen, William Haines, along with that incomparable pair of female funmakers, Polly Moran and Marie Dressler, will appear in "The Girl Said No," a screamingly funny talking play. Johnny Walker and Flash, the dog, will appear in the silent picture, "Where Trails Begin." Laurel and Hardy will handle the comedy end in "Night Owls."

BOULEVARD STOP RULE BEING STRICTLY ENFORCED

All motorists must come to a stop at boulevard stops!

That, in effect, is the order now being acted upon by state highway patrol officers and municipal police departments throughout the state. The law concerning boulevard stops is now being strictly enforced as part of the campaign this month of the California Committee on Public Safety.

Each month the state-wide committee concetrates on one phase of traffic law violations, continuing the safety drive the year round. During the first part of each month efforts are directed to educating and advising motorists regarding the legal requirements on the specific subject for the month, while enforcement of this law is carried on during the latter part of the month.

Newspapers, 24 radio stations broadcasting the safety messages three times each week, in addition to a series of five minute radio talks, hundreds of motion picture theaters displaying a series of traffic safety slogans, street car companies and other agencies co-operate in the educational campaign. The committee also prepares and issues monthly bulletins to 472 service clubs and other organizations in all parts of the state. Making the motoring public more "traffic minded" is the plan of the educational effort.

Electric railway companies and motor bus lines of the state co-operate by displaying window posters urging safer driving and walking and in some cases through bulletins issued to passengers. The slogan of this month's drive is "Stopping at Boulevard Stops Averts Crashes."

The motor vehicle law of the state requires motorists to bring their vehicles to a complete stop upon approaching any arterial or through street marked by signs.

IS A MOUNUMENT TO AMERICAN ENTERPRISE

At the end of 1929, 20,233,000 telephones were in use in the United States, an increase of 892,000 during the year. There were 520,400 persons employed in rendering telephone service.

The total mileage of telephone wire is 76,710,000, an average of 3½ miles for each instrument. But 7.3 per cent of this is open wire, the remainder being in cables.

All but 136,000 telephones can be interconnected for national and international long-distance communication. Approximately 86 per cent of the 34,500,000 telephones in the world are capable of complete interconnection.

These statistics give some idea of the magnitude of an industry which is absolutely vital to civilization, as we understand and know it today, and which is an outstanding monument to American private initiative and enterprise.

Embarrassing

Having a tender passion, a young man took his girl some expensive flowers.

"How kind of you," said the girl, "to bring me these lovely flowers. They're so beautiful and fresh I think there is some dew on them yet."

"Yes," he said in great embarrassment, "there is but I'm going to pay it off tomorrow."

Don't wait until it is too late. Repair it when trouble starts.

New Patient: "For weeks I've been fighting a terrible desire to kill myself, doctor."

Medico: "Tut, tut!"

New Patient: "But I've decided that suicide is a sin; so I've come to you."

Slight Obstacle

Wife (Who has just caught her husband squandering a penny on a fortune-telling machine): "H'm! So you're to have a beautiful and charming wife, are you? Not while I'm alive, Eddie, not while I'm alive!"

Sauce for the Gander

A small boy had slapped a little girl. The teacher was quick to rebuke the youngster.

"Jackson," she said, "no gentleman would strike a lady."

The boy was ready with his reply. It was: "Well, no lady would tickle a gentleman."

"The new patient in Ward B is very good looking," said the nurse.

"Yes," agreed the matron, "but don't wash his face. He's already had that done by four nurses this morning."
